NEW SOUTH WALES INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND.

FOUNDED FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB IN 1861, AND FOR THE BLIND IN 1869.

Erected on Five Acres of Land on the City Road, late Newtown Road, Sydney.

The Foundation Stone was laid by His Excellency the Earl of Belmore, on April 3rd, 1871. Opened publicly in February, 1872.

HINTS TO PARENTS.

Written for the Ulster Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind, by the REVEREND JOHN KINGHAN, Principal.

THE time allowed for the education of the Deaf and Dumb in our Institution being necessarily so very limited, it is of the greatest importance that the attention of their friends should be directed to the early and proper training which some children ought to receive. If there were only a willing mind, parents and friends might do much by preparatory training at home to facilitate the progress of these children on admission to our Institution as well as to benefit them when they leave it.

I.—UNEDUCATED DEAF AND DUMB CHILDREN.

Such children could easily be taught to write on a slate, or otherwise, in their own homes, or with their brothers and sisters in the common school of the neighbourhood. When the child can form letters on a slate, it should be taught the manual alphabet. This may be done thus: Write the letter a on a slate, draw the child's attention to it, then teach it to put its hand in the position indicated in the engraved manual alphabet for a. Repeat this till the sight of the letter readily suggests this particular position of the hand. Let the instructor then form this letter on his own hand and see if the child can write the letter. In the same way proceed with the other letters. The alphabet having been thus learned, give the child names of objects or animals with which it is familiar, beginning with words of three letters, as hat, dog, pig, cow, pin, etc. Thus: Write very plainly the word hat. Then let the child form the letters h a t on its fingers, and next point to a hat. Let this process be frequently repeated, till the letters come to be associated with the object and fixed in the memory of the child. This being done, blot out the word, point again to the object and see if the child can write hat; and, if so, proceed gradually to teach other words in the same manner, such as those for parts of the body, articles of dress, furniture, tools, etc. Pictures of objects may be used with much profit.

Colours and numbers might also be taught. In teaching numbers, give the child a few objects to count, and let them be written down thus: 1, one; 2, two; 3, three.

II.—DEAF AND DUMB PUPILS AT HOME DURING VACATION.

At this time they should be taught the names of parents, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, cousins, etc. Thus—Uncle ANDREW BROWN, Aunt CHARLOTTE DIXON, etc. The names of places, particularly the residence of friends, neighbouring towns, etc., might be given. When the name is first taught, the person or place named must be shown to the child.

Various operations connected with agriculture, and with the trades carried on in their neighbourhood might be explained to these children, which would be very difficult to teach in an Institution: for many of these must be seen to be fully understood.

Induce pupils whilst at home to spend some time daily in revising lessons in their school-books.

III.—DEAF MUTES WHO HAVE LEFT SCHOOL.

When pupils finally leave school, much may be accomplished by friends in the way of carrying forward their education. They should converse much with these children, in very simple language, on religious and other subjects, by means of the manual alphabet and by writing. The use of signs, except when trying to explain difficult words, should be avoided and discouraged. For example, instead of signing to the child, Bring me a chair, write these words or spell them, and always oblige the child to write or spell what it has to express, and correct for it any errors in the language it employs. By adhering to this course, a desire will be excited in the minds of these children to acquire and keep up a correct style in the use of written language, an attainment on their part of the greatest difficulty, and yet of the highest importance.

Attention is specially directed to the importance of having these pupils immediately apprenticed to some trade, or occupied in some useful employment on their return home, by which they may be kept from acquiring idle habits, and be put in the way of earning their own livelihood. The Committee will assist, when necessary, in carrying this out.

In the management of these children, let parents and friends beware of the extremes of over-indulgence on the one hand, or of undue severity on the other. Such children suffer very much from injudicious kindness, or from violent and rude opposition. In general they should be treated very much like other children, and taught to feel in every respect that they are responsible beings.

FORTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

New South Wales Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING ON SEPTEMBER 30th, 1910.

The duty of presenting their report on the proceedings, occurrences and business of the Institution for another twelve months affords the Board much pleasure and satisfaction. The year has been one of quiet, steady progress, not marked by any great event, but rather by a steadfast devotion to duty by the officers and teachers, and a patient, praiseworthy endeavour to succeed on the part of the pupils.

As the following tabulated statement shows, the number of children on the roll is three less than it was a year ago:—

	Deaf & Dumb.		Blind.		Deaf and Dumb and Blind Female.	Totals.		Grand Total.
	Male. Female		Male. Female			Male.	Female
	Male.	Female	Male.	Female
On the Roll Sept. 30, 1908	79	43	12	9	1	91	53	144
Admit'd since	6	6	3	4		9	10	19
	85	49	15	13	1	100	63	163
Graduated, Discharged or Removed ..	10	7	3	2		13	9	22
On Roll now	75	42	12	11	1	87	54	141

The studies of the children have been interrupted somewhat by sickness. Upwards of fifty of them were laid aside with the prevailing epidemics of measles and mumps. Happily there are only a few cases of mumps now in the Institution.

Dr. P. Sydney Jones, honorary physician, was unremitting in his attention to the pupils during their illness, and is deserving of the warmest thanks, not only of the Board, but of the parents of the children as well.

Again the Directors have to express their deep regret that nothing has been done in this State to bring about the compulsory education of deaf and dumb and blind children. When the Directors think of the number of afflicted children who are growing up without any education, after having done all that was possible to persuade the parents to place them in the Institution, and when they contemplate the misery and wretchedness those children will have to endure after they grow up through this mistaken policy, they feel that the time has arrived when steps should be taken to pass a law to compel parents to realise their responsibilities and to make it possible for children who are deaf or blind to receive such an education and training as will enable them afterwards to earn their own livelihood, and place them, as far as possible, on an equal footing with their more fortunate fellows who are not troubled with such terrible disabilities. It is a great reflection on those responsible that such a condition of things has been allowed to continue for so long a period after attention has been called to the necessity for creating a remedy. While provision is made, and rightly so, for the compulsory education of children with all their faculties, their unfortunate brothers and sisters, who are comparatively helpless unless educated, are deprived of this advantage and left to struggle on as best they may, and ultimately, through no fault of their own, to become a permanent burden on the State.

OUR DEAF, DUMB AND BLIND PUPIL.

This interesting child, Alice Betteridge, who, we hope, will prove to be another Helen Keller, continues to make wonderful advancement with her studies, and great credit is due to her teacher, Miss Reid, B.A., for the patience, enthusiasm and ability with which she has carried out her duties on behalf of her pupil. The question is sometimes asked what is the use of it all, and what will Alice be able to do when she grows up to womanhood. The best answer to such queries is to refer to the life of Helen Keller as written by herself. The difficulties she encountered in obtaining an education were enormous, and her success in overcoming them was marvellous. But she was fortunate in having a teacher who was able to devote the whole of her time to her pupil. At present Alice Betteridge is not so happily situated, as her teacher has to devote a good deal of her time to other pupils. Notwithstanding this and other drawbacks Alice is making very satisfactory progress and her career will be followed with much interest by many warm-hearted friends. Further reference to Alice will be found in the appended report of the Inspectors of the Department of Public Instruction, and also in the report of the Superintendent (Mr. Watson).

FINANCIAL.

In last year's report the Directors expressed a hope that the debt of the Institute for the Adult Deaf would be entirely cleared off during the ensuing year. It affords them much satisfaction to report that this has been done, and that the overdraft on the General Fund Account has also been wiped out.

The income on General Fund Account was ..	6250	17	7
The expenditure (including the Adult Deaf Account) was	6084	0	0

The following special amounts have been received during the year and placed to the credit of the Perpetual Subscribers' Fund, viz.:—£20 (making a total of £120) from the estate of the late James Bartlett; £13 15s (making a total of £63 15s) from the estate of the late Richard Jones; and a donation of £50 from Mrs. Benjamin Buchanan, of London.

Information has been received that a legacy of £100 has been left to the Institution by the late Samuel Neale, but the amount has not yet come to hand.

ALICE BETTERIDGE,

Our deaf, dumb and blind pupil, aged 9 years. This interesting child is making remarkable progress in school. She is an expert in the use of the deaf and dumb language, and has learnt both to read and write the Braille embossed characters. The above picture shows her in the act of reading a Braille book.

It will be absolutely necessary very soon to spend a considerable amount of money in providing additional accommodation for children who are known to be eligible for admission, but, as the Directors have no funds available for the purpose, they have had to delay operations, although plans have been prepared for some time. The Institution is now about to enter on its jubilee year, and if the proposed buildings could be erected before the next annual meeting, the official opening could be made a special feature of the jubilee celebrations. The attention of wealthy members of the community is respectfully drawn to this matter in the hope that the necessary funds for carrying out the work will be provided. An application has been made to the Government for financial assistance towards the erection of these new buildings, but up to the present no definite answer has been received. The Directors are anxiously awaiting a reply.

Enlarging the buildings and increasing the number of pupils mean, of course, an increase in the cost of maintenance. The Directors invite attention to this aspect of the ease and trust that the financial support of the Institution for current expenditure will be considerably augmented.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS, LADIES' VISITING COMMITTEE AND HONORARY STAFF.

The President, J. H. Goodlet, Esq., J.P., and Messrs. Chadwick and Reuss, Directors, have been absent on leave, the two former in England and the latter in Japan.

It is with deep regret the Board have to announce the death, on the 31st March last, of Mrs. J. R. Love, who had been a member of the Ladies' Visiting Committee for 34 years, during the greater part of which time she had been an earnest, active worker for the good of the Institution and the benefit of its pupils. The Directors placed on record their appreciation of the valuable services rendered by Mrs. Love and sent to her bereaved husband and family a letter of sympathy.

Mrs. Cosh, of Turramurra, was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Love.

The Directors desire to record their thankfulness to the Ladies' Visiting Committee for their kind and disinter-tered services during the past year. The ladies visit the Institution frequently and regularly, and exercise an efficient supervision over the domestic matters and technical instruction of the female pupils in cookery, needle-work, etc., thus assisting the Board in many important details.

Mr. E. V. Hawkins has kindly accepted the position of Hon. Dental Surgeon in conjunction with Mr. A. G. Gabriel.

The thanks of the Board have been awarded to the following honorary officers for their services during the past year:—Dr. George E. Rennie (Hon. Consulting Physician); Dr. C. P. B. Clubbe (Hon. Consulting Surgeon); Dr. J. C. Halliday (Hon. Ophthalmic Surgeon); Dr. John B. Graham (Hon. Anral Surgeon); Dr. H. J. Marks and Dr. P. Sydney Jones (Hon. Physicians); Messrs. A. L. McCredie and Anderson (Hon. Architects); Percy J. Pratt, Esq. (Hon. Solicitor); A. G. Gabriel, Esq., and E. V. Hawkins, Esq. (Hon. Dentists); T. F. H. Maekenzie, Esq., and Henry Pratt, Esq. (Hon. Auditors), and Miss Stella Rosenthal (Hon. Teacher of Needlework).

OFFICIAL STAFF.

Miss McMillan, Assistant Matron, resigned her position in June last.

Miss Watson was appointed an assistant teacher in February.

The Superintendent, Matron, Officers and Teachers have carried out their duties with commendable zeal and enthusiasm, to the entire satisfaction of the Board.

On the 10th November next, Mr. Watson, the esteemed Superintendent of the Institution, will have completed his 40th year of service. On account of declining years he has intimated his desire to be relieved from duty. While acceding to his request with very much regret the Directors consider that by this retirement the pupils will lose a most painstaking and skilful teacher and a very affectionate and well-wishing friend. For faithful and successful administration, devotion to duty, and personal interest in the well-being of all with whom he has come in contact Mr. Watson's record is most praiseworthy and unique.

GENERAL.

His Excellency the Governor-General (the Earl of Dudley) and Georgia Countess of Dudley, accompanied by Captain Gilliat, A.D.C., paid a visit to the Institution on Monday, 11th April. They were received by members of the Board and Ladies' Visiting Committee. The blind children having sung the National Anthem, Sir Philip Sydney Jones, on behalf of the Board, gave a hearty welcome to His Excellency and the Countess of Dudley. An address in Braille type was read by one of the blind pupils, and a type-written copy was rendered in the sign language by one of the deaf children. His Excellency, in an interesting speech, expressed his pleasure at being able to visit the Institution. He said he had visited many schools and had had many addresses presented to him, but he had never been so touched as he was by this simple address and by the kindly reference to Lady Dudley. He hoped that, when she returned, she would be strong enough to pay the Institution a visit. The Vice-Regal party were then conducted over the Institution and, when leaving, expressed pleasure and satisfaction with all they had seen.

The Institution was also honoured by a visit, on the 27th July, from that distinguished scientist and teacher of the Deaf, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, and Mrs. Bell. They were received and cordially welcomed by members of the Board and Mr. Watson (Superintendent). Dr. Bell inquired minutely into the details of our work, and was specially interested in little Alice Betteridge, our deaf, dumb and blind pupil. Dr. and Mrs. Bell were afterwards entertained at afternoon tea and accorded a hearty vote of thanks for the honour and pleasure of their visit. Dr. Bell, in returning thanks, complimented the Directors and Superintendent on the good work being done in the Institution.

Prior to the breaking up of the school for the Christmas holidays, on the 15th December, the public examination of the pupils, and distribution of prizes, took place in the presence of a large gathering of the children's parents, subscribers and other friends. Mr. W. H. Simpson, J.P., presided, and the prizes were handed to the successful students by Mrs. Rigg, a member of the Ladies' Visiting Committee. The bright, happy, contented and cheerful appearance of the pupils was remarked by many of those present, and bore ample testimony to the care and attention bestowed on them by the teachers and officers. A special feature of the proceedings was the presentation to Mr. Watson of a silver afternoon tea service on behalf of the parents of pupils in recognition of his fatherly care of the children during his 39 years occupancy of the position of superintendent.

By the authority of the Minister for Public Instruction, at the invitation of the Board, Messrs. R. H. Grieve, B.A., and J. Dennis, M.A., Inspectors of Schools, visited the Institution on the 28th and 29th September. The following extracts from their report will be found interesting:—

“The Institution serves a double purpose—(1) It provides for those children who, being deprived of the means of full mental and moral development, would, if left to themselves probably lead the lives of paupers or of criminals: (2) Of those whose guardians have means sufficient to maintain them in adult life, but who have not opportunities of educating them. Incidentally it provides for a third class of children—those who, being not only deprived of sight and hearing, but also feeble-minded, might reasonably be regarded as a charge on the State.

“The most remarkable pupil in the Institution is Alice Betteridge, a child 9 years and 8 months old, who, like the world-famous Helen Keller, is deaf as well as blind. To reach the mind of one so afflicted might well appear a hopeless task. Yet by patience and skill avenues of communication have been opened up, thought awakened, and the power of expression developed. By the use of the manual alphabet Alice can now talk freely with her teacher and schoolmates; by means of the Braille system she can read and write almost as easily as ordinary children of the same age, better, indeed, than many who are gifted with sight and hearing and have been at school for the same length of time; she acts in her play the stories she has read, and enters to an almost incredible degree into the life and activities that are going on around her. She can count and add, can sew, make dolls and dress them, do bead work in patterns that require considerable skill. And all this has been brought about in a little over two years. The credit belongs to Miss Reid, who has had special charge of the child’s training. Alice herself must have been endowed by nature with a brain of excellent quality. Her bright, cheerful, affectionate ways have made her a general favourite, and the Institution has a right to be proud of her. The following piece of composition, written by her in Braille during the inspection, will no doubt prove interesting:—

“I got a letter from Rita to-day. Teacher brought roses to school this morning. My bead bag is finished now. It was raining yesterday; we stayed in the school-room and library. All the boys and girls are going home after two days. George, Kitty, Norman, Gilford are not going home after two days; their home is too far away. Men are here. Their names are Mr. Grieve and Mr. Dennis; they are looking at all the girls and boys. I will not be here next week. I will be in Maitland next week. Rain is good to give flowers and grass and seed a drink.”

“The case of this child fittingly concludes our report upon an excellently-managed and efficient Institution.”

The special classes for the teaching of cookery, fancy needlework, dressmaking, drawing, repoussé work, carpentry, and gardening for the Deaf, and music, etc., for the Blind, have all been continued during the year with gratifying results. The children engage in the work of these classes most cheerfully and willingly, and some of them acquit themselves exceedingly well and turn out some very good work. The training of the hand and eye the pupils receive in this way is bound to prove useful to them after they leave school. Their physical development is also attended to in other ways, i.e., by means of drill, cricket, tennis, football and other games.

INSTITUTE FOR THE ADULT DEAF.

This branch of the Institution's operations continues to make satisfactory progress along the lines upon which it was first founded. Under the direction of Mr. Watson, efficiently assisted by Mr. F. S. Booth, Mr. Victor Fisher, and an energetic Committee of the Deaf themselves, meetings are held regularly every week, and many profitable hours are spent at these gatherings. Lectures on interesting subjects are occasionally given by kind friends, while on Sundays religious services are held and well attended. Some time ago the Deaf purchased a small printing plant with which they print their own little newspaper, "The Silent Messenger," which serves admirably as a means of communication between the Deaf of Sydney and those of the country. To extinguish a small debt on the printing outfit it was decided by the Deaf to get up a sale of work. This was opened by Mr. J. R. Love, senior vice-president, on Thursday, 22nd September, and was kept open on that and the two following days. After paying all expenses the Association has £89 18s 5d to its credit.

The exterior of the Institute was painted during the year at a cost of £34 10s.

CONCLUSION.

The foregoing report summarises the year's work and calls for much thankfulness to our Heavenly Father for the success which has attended our efforts and for the restoration to their accustomed health of the many pupils who have been laid aside with sickness. In submitting same for your acceptance we trust that even a larger measure of encouragement and assistance may be accorded to us in the future than it has been our good fortune to experience in the years gone by, and for which the Directors tender their warmest thanks.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Gentlemen,—It affords me much pleasure at the expiration of another year in the history of your Institution to refer, however briefly, to the work going on here; and to speak with continued confidence and satisfaction regarding the schoolrooms, workshops, domestic and other operations connected therewith.

As this is the last report I shall have the privilege of writing, owing to my intended departure from this Institution next June, after fifty years of work among the Deaf and Blind, perhaps it may not be considered out of place if the following remarks are of a somewhat reminiscent character; if, in other words, they glance very cursorily over so far, I mean, as these have any bearing upon the work of your Institution. The history of our educational system in New South Wales, speaking in a general way, shows marked advances of late years, both in mental and manual developments; and happily the story of Deaf Mute Education, if told by an expert, would unfold a similar tale. It would reveal growth and progress of a gratifying kind in all that makes for the well-being of the Deaf and Blind. Indeed one sees everywhere a healthy and growing desire to reach the higher and better instincts of these young people, a strenuous endeavour by the use of all means and methods possible to understand and meet their needs and capacities. Hence for the Deaf grows brighter and broader with the passing years. At no former period, probably, were there so many facilities available for their mental and physical equipment. A paternal Government, encouraged and supported by a healthy public opinion, would illustrate and endorse the foregoing remark; whilst the generous aims and impulses of the more philanthropic ones in the community include the Deaf and Blind in their laudable embrace and general well-being.

Changes.

On my arrival in Sydney in 1870 it was a comparatively small city, with a population of 80,000, whilst the number of Blind and Deaf here was only a little over 30. At that time the work of your Institution was being carried on in a large private house at Paddington, whilst the site on which the present beautiful structure stands was a bare five-acre paddock. Then there were but two such Institutions in operation for all Australia and New Zealand. Now each State of the Commonwealth, including Tasmania and New Zealand, has its own Institution, fully equipped with all modern requirements. In these respects, as also with regard to monetary support, it was then "the day of small things" indeed.

From motives of economy and other causes the period of school training for the pupils was then very brief, running from 2 to 4 or 5 years generally. In older lands, indeed, a similar course obtained, and for like reasons.

How Different Now

when from 8 to 10 or even 12 years are not considered too much for the thorough mental equipment of Deaf children, especially in America. But thanks to the steady growth of public opinion and an attitude of openmindedness on the part of the Directorate here, headed by one and another whose names and doings deserve permanent recognition, I say, through the thoughtful foresight of such gentlemen as the late Rev. Drs. King and Lang, and, later on, Sir Arthur Renwick, better and ampler arrangements and conditions as to length of time at school, etc., were gradually effected.

But to enumerate these important developments, or even give the names of those "worthies" then at the head of affairs and responsible would go beyond the scope or purpose of this brief report.

In glancing through your own official report I find, among several matters of interest, a brief reference to

here, and to a few remarks made by the distinguished scientist on that occasion. His remarks and suggestions made here and there gained a considerable amount of public attention throughout the Commonwealth and New Zealand, and might thus be summarised:—

1. The entire removal of the orally taught pupils from the manual.
2. The formation of a separate establishment in which those children whose mentality is weak might be educated by means of the sign and manual method.
3. Adopt the Pure Oral system here, as is the case in the Philadelphian Institution, and in one or two others of which the genial doctor spoke.

Varied Opinions.

Opinions would differ widely among experts in Deaf Mute Education regarding the wisdom of the foregoing changes. Some would advocate the Pure Oral for all deaf children; not a few would prefer the Combined system; whilst a large and growing number would urge the desirability of suiting the method to the child rather than the child to the method.

There can be no doubt whatever that under the Pure Oral system better speech and lip-reading are attainable. This was to me very apparent, for example, at the Northampton and a few other schools which it was my privilege to see some seven years ago in America. But the question as to a good sound education and mental equipment, the system most likely to promote the happiness and ultimate welfare of the Deaf; in a word, the method best calculated to "do the greatest good to the greatest number"—this is the point that still remains undecided, the debatable ground among experts, and the one upon which the Adult Deaf themselves speak without hesitation. I am glad to notice a reference in your Report to and her progress. This dear child's presence is a very gratifying feature in the daily routine here; her healthy, happy developments—mental and otherwise—affording abundant and continued satisfaction to her teacher, Miss Reid, and all others concerned.

Indeed the sympathy and good feeling stirred up one way and another through Alice are very wholesome factors here. They create a delightful atmosphere among both the Blind and Deaf children, whilst her happy disposition and marked progress are at once a surprise and an inspiration to old and young. Enclosed please find the of Messrs. Bennett, Massey, Sell and Booth, each of which testifies to the smooth and harmonious work going on all round among both teachers and taught; whilst the domestic arrangements, under the vigilant and judicious care of the Matron and her staff—Miss Reid's cookery class included—bear ample testimony to their excellence, the whole resulting in the general good health and comfort of these children entrusted to our care.

In Conclusion

permit me to refer, however briefly, to the valuable help rendered year after year so kindly and gratuitously by Miss Stella Rosenthal, and to the great good our elder Deaf girls derive from these sewing lessons. Let me also try, however imperfectly, to express the sense of gratitude and esteem I feel for the friendship and support it has been my privilege to receive through you during the past and many previous years. That every needed blessing may rest upon the Institution and all engaged in its government and support is the earnest wish of MUSIC MASTER'S REPORT.

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Gentlemen.—The Musical progress of the Blind pupils during the past twelve (12) months has been very satisfactory, and considering the drawbacks through illness, etc., I consider results very fair. I should like to make special mention of the four following piano students: Doris Dawson, very good; Vera Parkinson, good; Clive Thorndyke, very fair; Marion Hamling, fair. I regret to report the loss of some of our strong voices from the singing class, still those that are taking part now do very well and sometimes sing very sweetly. Miss Moffatt reports fairly good progress with junior pupils.

DRAWING MASTER'S REPORT.

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Gentlemen,—In writing the report of the classes under my instruction, I have to state that during the past twelve months the pupils have shown much attention and devotion, and put a considerable amount of energy into their work.

In the drawing class—which is of most importance, being the basis of all the Arts—the number of pupils has been equal to that of former years, and the work done is satisfactory.

The wood carving and repoussé work classes are doing very good work.

The modelling class is larger than in former years and the pupils being earnest and painstaking, the work turned out is all that could be desired.

J. A. BENNETT.

REPORT OF THE TEACHER OF CARPENTRY AND GARDENING.

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Gentlemen,—The classes under my charge for carpentry and gardening have made very satisfactory progress during the year, taking into consideration the fact that through sickness the attendance has been somewhat broken, also, that the majority are very young.

Notwithstanding these drawbacks they have made many useful articles.

Memorandum to the Secretary, Institution for the Deaf, Dumb, and the Blind, City Road, Darlington.

Appended is a copy of the report upon the examination of the children of the Institution last month by the visiting Inspectors of Schools, Messrs. R. H. Grieve and J. Dennis.

P. BOARD,
Under-Secretary.

N.S.W. INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND.

Visited 28th and 29th September, 1910.

The Institution serves a double purpose, (1) It provides for those children who, being deprived of the means of full mental and moral development, would, if left to themselves, probably lead the lives of paupers or of criminals; (2) of those whose guardians have means sufficient to maintain them in adult life but who have not opportunities of educating them. Incidentally it provides for a third class of children—those who, being not only deprived of sight and hearing, but also feeble-minded, might reasonably be regarded as a charge on the State.

The presence of paying and non-paying pupils on equal terms and united by a common bond of sympathy in their misfortune gives a distinctive color to the social organisation of the Institution and in a certain degree to its educational policy. The social organisation influences the outlook of the pupil, and this outlook in itself, is an important factor of his education. There is, too, in the administration and control by the Superintendent an absence of officialdom which tends to foster in the children a spirit of willing co-operation in the measures which are devised for their benefit. Freedom in regard to attendance, while it elevates the social character of the education, has its objectionable features, and the question is raised whether the absence of a compulsory law is not adding materially to the number of indigent and irresponsible members of the community.

In this Institution the child is, under a rational and gentle guidance, provided with a true home and his social, intellectual and spiritual relations are here more in accordance with his condition and needs, than the average home, so that greater breadth of intellectual vision and larger powers of co-ordination with social relationships are possible. It is therefore to be deplored that parents through ignorance, weakness, or a false sentimentality deprive their children of the benefits of a good education in company with their equals in physical endowments.

The first, and indeed the distinctive characteristic of the education of the Institution is the fidelity and earnestness with which the Superintendent, the Matron and the various Teachers perform their share in promoting the general welfare of the afflicted inmates. Such defects as exist are those which are inseparably connected with any teaching organisation.

The difficulties of providing in the same Institution for the education of the Deaf and the Blind are further accentuated by the mingling of the deaf, who are able to articulate and readily understand oral speech through their training in lip-reading, with those who are unable to communicate by oral speech. This circumstance and other considerations determine the system of teaching. The combined system is the one adopted for the Deaf. Experts differ on the question of the relative value of the Oral Method, the Manual Method and the Combined System. While the advocates of the Oral Method are a constantly increasing number, the number of children so taught in other countries is, so far as available statistics show, still in the minority. It is largely a matter for experts to determine, especially for those who have had experience both in administration and in teaching the Deaf, and it is inseparably bound up with the question of finance. We therefore refrain from expressing any judgment on the question and confine our remarks to the facts as they presented themselves to us. The Blind are taught in a separate department. The deaf child, on entering the school, is placed in the Oral Department, and the oral method is used in his instruction as long as there is reasonable hope of success. If he is found incapable of intelligent articulation, he is placed in the Manual Department. There were present at inspection 15 such pupils. In the remaining nine classes of deaf children the exercises are conducted through articulation lip-reading, drawing and writing. All these children soon learn to read and write with varying measures of success. A proportion have acquired the power of communicating with their teachers by oral speech and some succeed in making themselves intelligible to strangers.

The strenuous efforts, continued through years of patient sympathetic teaching, to help the child to acquire a vocabulary which at best must be limited, and to train him to pronounce correctly, call for the warmest admiration. If the people of the State could but realise the perseverance of the children and the missionary spirit of their teachers there would, we think, result a greater desire to place at the disposal of the school the most effective machinery available for the prosecution of their work. Although the large sum of £42 per head is spent in economical and efficient management, the per capita cost does not even approach the corresponding expenditure of institutions in some older countries. The accommodation and equipment have been steadily improved year by year, but as enlightened ideas prevail, and a large expenditure for public education grows, it cannot be expected that, in this most difficult branch of education there should not be need of constantly increasing expenditure.

The schoolroom accommodation is fully taxed. It would contribute to more effective instruction and impose less strain on the teachers, if the various class-rooms were separated by folding glazed partitions, such as are being provided in our public schools. A commencement might be made in the wing occupied by the Beginners' Class of the Oral Department. The lighting and the internal coloring are of importance in the schoolrooms occupied by the Deaf.

The wall spaces might be broken by good pictures, casts and worthy articles. There is a supply of pictures and charts for illustration of lessons and for language instruction. It is, of course, desirable, nay, imperative, that the supply of good pictures and of artistic decorations should be as complete as possible, not only because of their primary purpose, but because beauty of form and coloring is to the deaf what rhythm in music and poetry is to the blind. Some schoolroom needs of another kind suggest themselves, since they are considered indispensable in our day schools: (1) A museum collection of specimens of natural history and of local manufactures and other industries to supplement the present collection of object lesson cards, etc. (2) Cases, etc., for the observation of metamorphoses of insect life, and of processes in plant life; (3) Increase of appliances and aids to realistic teaching, e.g., scales and weights, measures of capacity, and apparatus for weather observations and for simple experiments in elementary science; (4) A model house for Beginners' Room, with furniture and utensils for teaching, in association with the models, the names of domestic articles and words expressive of domestic operations. (Note.—Most of these articles for school room purposes can be made in the Manual Training Shop, especially if soldering were added to the shop work, as is done in many day-schools. The children and parents might contribute to the Museum collection.)

Teachers' Library.

The Institution has a good supply of reports of kindred institutions. These reports and other suitable literature relating to education might be made available to the teachers, who should know something of what other countries are doing. The Teachers' room should have a reference library containing a few essential works on Pedagogy and at least one current magazine. In making these suggestions involving increased expenditure a quotation from the last Annual Report may be permitted: "The attention of wealthy members of the community is respectfully invited so that the claims of the children of silence and darkness may not be overlooked."

Manual and Industrial Training.

The Manual Training in the workshop is directed rather towards making the children handy and useful than towards helping them to acquire trade skill. Some of the manual occupations commence in the lowest classes as part of the class work. Both the blind and the deaf boys are taught netting, macrame and raffia work, and the deaf and blind girls are skilled in sewing, knitting, and bead work. The senior girls of the School for the Deaf learn cooking, under Miss Reid, starching and ironing in the laundry, dressmaking under Miss Lillie, and fancy needlework under Miss Stella Rosenthal. The Blind Girls share in the instruction in needlework. Twenty boys learn benchwork in wood in the shop under Mr. Sell, who also supervises the gardening operations. The quality of all the lines of work mentioned approaches excellence.

The aim of the work is rather educational and social than vocational, but nevertheless it happens that the training of some of the girls enables them to get employment in domestic service, and some of the boys pass into occupations demanding manual skill. The woodwork was not only tasteful in design but displayed careful and exact workmanship. Preference is shown by the boys for useful articles which lend themselves to ornamentation by carving, and for those whose outlines are based on graceful curves.

Art Work.

The expression work and illustrative drawing of the Oral and Manual Department were generally very creditable. Not only were the drawings and sketches made in the ordinary class work good, but the boys and girls readily seized chalk or pen for the purpose of illustrating features of the ordinary language and object lessons. Plastic material might with advantage be used in the lower class to supplement and re-inforce the work just described.

Under Mr. Bennett a large class of boys of the Oral Department are taught Drawing, Modelling, Wood-carving, and Repoussé Work (Metal). In execution the work approaches very nearly the standard of former years, notwithstanding that the boys are much younger in average age. This is high praise. The drawing, modelling and carving are correlative to each other; the same forms are produced in each medium. The boys draw, model, and carve from solid models, and each one consequently learns real "form." So far, the course satisfies the main requirements of artistic handicraft. It is, however, necessary, that the exercises should also relate to the life experiences and interests of the boys. Further, to be general in its nature the contents of the course should be drawn both from Nature and Art. The boys would therefore profit by drawing, modelling, etc., from real objects as well as from casts representing conventionalised forms.

School Gardening.

The serious work of gardening is wisely restricted to a few elder boys of the School for the Deaf. The experience of this Institution goes to show that the deaf soon tire of monotonous physical exertion and seek for frequent change, whether at work or play, consequently school gardening, rather than gardening as an industry or daily occupation, is all that is aimed at for the young children. The garden is therefore rather a laboratory for the observation and care of plant life and growth than a place for teaching how to work. The grounds and flower beds are kept in a highly creditable condition.

School Library.

There is an excellent library of books for the Blind in the Braille characters. Among the books may be mentioned, a complete copy of the Bible, a large number of the plays of Shakespeare, and the works of a number of English poets. What is more important than the possession of the Library is the fact that there was evidence that good use was made of the books. Not only had some books been read to the children, but the children themselves are regular and appreciative readers.

Lesson Guides, Etc.

The time-table provides for frequent changes in the kind of occupation so as to avoid fatigue and loss of active interest. The lesson plans are constructed in such a way as to be of real use to the teachers. The plan of instruction in "Language" is based on sound principles and is carefully graded. The instruction in Number and Quantity is well organised in the Beginners' Classes, but some modifications might be made in the plan of Arithmetic instruction in the higher classes of the Oral and Blind Departments to bring the content of the instruction into closer relationship with the facts and needs of everyday life—especially to the needs of life which these children are likely to lead. Nature Study might share, with the study of objects, the time set down for Object Lessons.

Government.

The general character of the government has been indicated in our introductory remarks. Harsh measures are unnecessary. The children were cheerful and active during inspection, and this appears to be their normal condition. The government tends to give the scholars self-reliance and self-control and to train them for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. The physical training is effected through good food, abundant fresh air, frequent breathing exercises and organised as well as free play. The play is supervised by the teachers. Cricket is the boys' favorite game in summer, and football in the winter. Strange as it may seem, even the blind join in playing cricket with great zest. By using a wicker ball with a metal rattle inside they are able to follow its movements. There is a very successfully conducted swimming class. Some of the children find amusement in playing "house" or "school," and they act in the playground such stories as "Little Red Riding Hood."

The moral training of the pupils is strengthened by a reverent study of the Scriptures.

INSTRUCTION.

It is a difficult matter in any department of education to measure the results and express them in absolute terms or in percentages. It is especially so in the education of the Deaf and the Blind. We can realise and measure what is accomplished only as we consider the ends to be reached. In accordance with established custom we have furnished herewith estimates of proficiency in the various branches of instruction, but we do not regard such estimate (made during a brief inspection without previous acquaintance with the children and without previous knowledge of the Institution) as more than expressing an approximate judgment of the measure of the Teachers' success in presenting the various subjects and in securing the child's intelligent effort in his own improvement. We would suggest that in future the Superintendent's Examination Register of each pupil's proficiency and progress in such subjects as lend themselves to comparative measurement by a numerical value, should be submitted to the inspecting officers, so that those officers may apply such tests only as the circumstances may warrant for the purpose of forming a judgment of the proficiency and progress, and so be free to give attention to the more vital matters of Organisation and of Instruction in its aim, scope and methods.

These vital matters have been carefully examined by us on this occasion and the ordinary work has been reviewed in such a way as to afford us an insight into the character of the Institution as an educational agency, the content of the curriculum, the aims of the teachers and the character and quality of the instruction as it appeared to accomplish its purpose in enabling the children to live a happier and more useful life, and to give efficient service in the home, in society and in a useful vocation.

ORAL DEPARTMENT.

Beginners' Class.—The lowest section represents half a year's work. Already the children are able to recognise simple words and sentences written on the blackboard. They are able to interpret them orally, and by doing what the sentences direct them to do. They were able to understand by watching the lip movements a limited number of sounds, to imitate these sounds, and to find on a phonic chart the written characters which stood for sounds made by the teacher. By drawing and by writing they were able to express simple words in singular and plural and to write answers to such questions as "What is that?" "What are those?" They recognised figures representing numbers less than 10 and performed addition and subtraction involving the use of them.

The work of the middle division was similar but more advanced. Greater power of voluntary attention and muscular control was shown by the children of this division. Some writing by children 7 and 8 years respectively would have done credit to 50 per cent. of our best pupils of similar ages in Infants' Schools.

In the upper division the alertness and intensity of the children's attention were somewhat remarkable. At a given signal the children would lean forward in the attitude of expectation, awaiting the movement of the teacher's lips in articulating a sentence (question, statement or command). Immediately one or other would seize a piece of chalk and write an answer, or would obey the command. Sentences involving the present tense, present participle and past tense of such verbs as "dance," "do," "give," "come," "take," etc., were written in singular and plural to express actions performed by one another. Prepositions were introduced, in a similar manner, by a "hiding" and "seeking" game. Progress in difficulty and improvement in quality were two characteristics of the children's work as exhibited by their books and examination tests applied in presence of the examiner. The teaching of number was successful in giving ideas of notation and in performing the four operations with simple numbers. The class was able to add simple sums of money represented by coins in the hands of one or other of the pupils. Counting one by one is apparently the favourite method of adding. Adding by known results has not yet been achieved notwithstanding ceaseless efforts to bring it about.

In this room is a blackboard upon which any child may at any time write anything it likes. It is the "free press" of the school in which all communications are privileged.

Much of the success of these three sections is due to the personality, the energy and skill of Miss Beaumont. The Pupil Teachers associated with her in the instruction are doing work which is satisfactory in varying degrees according to experience and ability. The course of lessons given them by Miss Beaumont includes, along with special training in methods, a very useful discussion of the history and principles of Education of the Deaf. This part of Miss Beaumont's work calls for special notice and commendation.

Class V. (Miss Harrison). The children in this class have made further progress in articulation, lip reading and in ability to write and draw. The girls especially make neatness of work a feature of the written exercises. It was remarked that the boys showed preference in free drawings for representing "movement." Motor cars were a favorite subject. The course of Arithmetic appears to deal with numbers somewhat beyond the mental grasp and outside the ability of these children to apply to personal experiences. These might be left for a higher class and the time saved might then be devoted to learning the combinations and separations of numbers less than 20 and applying these results to discovering relations between higher numbers. Simple measuring was understood. Some time in each week should be spent in weighing and in mental operations based on the real operations.

Breathing exercises are carefully taught in this class as in the Beginners' classes.

Classes IV. and III. (Mr. Byrne and Miss McIntyre). History and Geography are added in these classes to those subjects taught in the classes below them. The teachers wisely refrain from aiming at quantity and make the instruction as objective as possible; pictures are used to convey impressions whenever it is possible and expedient to do so. We would strongly advise the use of the sand-tray in the lessons in both subjects, and also the making of relief maps in plastic material or paper pulp. The mental arithmetic was sufficiently concrete and practical. Time did not permit us to fully investigate the extent to which the written arithmetic in Class 4 was related to the pupils' experience. Measuring was a part of the "work" in Class III. Weighing did not appear to have been extensively practised to give definite notions of the relations between the various unit quantities of "weight" and "capacity." The writing of sentences dictated orally by the teachers gave a satisfactory proportion of good results. The lesson books used as reading books are probably not fully suited to the needs of deaf children. It is unfortunately true that it is not possible to get any one book which is quite suitable. Lip reading of a new lesson is recommended as preliminary to the reading aloud from the book. The boys' brushwork was satisfactory. An imperfect attempt at representing a flower held in the hand would, however, be more educative than exclusive imitation of the engraved copies now used. The breathing exercises were well done. The manual work and needlework were very creditable.

In the First and Second Classes, taught by the Superintendent and Mr. Everingham, the pupils pass through the final stages of their training. Articulation is further developed by arranging words in phonetic groups and dealing with one difficulty at a time. For example, words ending in "tion" form the subject of a separate lesson, towards the end of which the pupils themselves add many words to the list. Thus, by slow degrees their speech is improved until it is in part intelligible even to strangers. At the same time progress in lip-reading is evidenced by the ability to write sentences from the teacher's dictation. There is also a great advance in the power to express thought in writing. Lessons in Geography, History and Scripture are readily reproduced with chalk or pen, and some attempt is made at original composition. The neat legible writing, the correct spelling, and the well-formed grammatical sentences all bear witness to careful and patient training. Any countries or important towns that may be mentioned the pupils can point out on the map without hesitation. With the aid of pictures and specimens fixed on cards a great deal of general knowledge has been imparted. Elementary Physiology is taught with some relation to the laws of health. The lessons in History would be more effective if they were arranged in regular sequence. In the teaching of Arithmetic long mechanical sums should be avoided and more attention devoted to simple practical problems such as occur in daily life. The handling of actual weights and the frequent weighing of objects would form the best ground work for instructions in avoidance of weight.

The pupils in these classes have, on the average, been under instruction for five or six years, one for as long as nine years, and the general results, as seen in their work, reflect the highest credit on all concerned.

II.—MANUAL DEPARTMENT.

The Manual Department comprises boys and girls who failed to attempt the art of articulation. The work which Miss Brounley has performed in raising these pupils to a higher level of development is deserving of all praise. She knows the children's difficulties, and they appreciate her efforts. The majority write with chalk on the blackboard in answer to questions, or under specified headings sentences on the animals, objects and pictures which have formed topics for objective language lessons, on such subjects as the childhood of Moses, and on geography lessons. One of the younger children wrote a hymn from memory, another wrote the Lord's Prayer, another a few sentences about Samuel. They are able to do these things with ease and rapidity. They also performed simple operations in the four "rules," quickly and correctly, by using the fingers as counters.

III.—BLIND SCHOOL.

The instruction of the Blind is under the direction of Miss Reid, who is assisted by Miss Moffatt and Miss Seoular. Considering that Miss Reid has had to work out for herself a system of instruction without the aid of special training, the success she has achieved is highly creditable. If to the experience she has already acquired there could be added a period of training the gain to the Institution would more than compensate for the expense that would be incurred. Not only would she incorporate in her own teaching the best methods that have been devised but she would communicate these to the junior teachers working under her supervision.

The blind pupils, on entering the Institution, having enjoyed for years the powers of hearing and speech, have thereby attained a much higher stage of mental growth than the deaf mutes. By their capacity for keen and sustained attention their further development is also made comparatively easy and rapid. Owing partly to these advantages and partly to the painstaking and capable instruction they receive their progress in some respects compares favourably with that of children who have all their senses.

The subject in which Miss Reid's pupils most excel is English. Not knowing a single letter when they come they can within a year make a fair attempt to read easy narrative. In the next class they master words of two and three syllables, but, for some reason, find poetry more difficult than prose, perhaps for want of practice. The pupils of Class III were, at inspection, put to the test of reading a previously untried lesson in the third reader, and acquitted themselves well. Yet these have been only a little over two years in the School. The two higher classes can read any ordinary English with ease. Along with the power to read the pupils acquire a taste for the best kind of reading. In addition to the lessons taught in school hours the senior pupils have read many of the plays of Shakespeare, and works by Scott, Dickens, Lytton, and Eliot. Such books as The Pilgrim's Progress, Robinson Crusoe, Uncle Tom's Cabin, and Tom Brown's School Days are eagerly read even by the Third Class. All these and more are to be found in the school library, which also contains a complete Braille edition of the Bible in many bulky volumes. Sometimes the children listen while the teacher reads a good book. Short poems and appropriate extracts are committed to memory and recited with evident interest and appreciation. One or two pupils specially delight in Coleridge's Hymn before Sunrise in the Vale of Chamouni. This work is supplemented by lessons on the lives and works of the great English writers. A few questions, asked by the examiner, about Wordsworth, Byron, and Shelley, met with ready response. All this work in literature is of special value to these children since it furnishes their minds with fine thoughts, cultivates ideals, and opens up a source of the purest enjoyment. That so much can be accomplished for the blind in the short period of six years is truly wonderful.

For Writing as for Reading the Braille alphabet is used. But while Braille is read in the ordinary way from left to right it has to be written the reverse way, from right to left, and all the letters are made backwards. Notwithstanding this difficulty the pupils have gained considerable facility in written composition, the legibility of which is proved by the fact that the writing of one is easily read by the others. So long, however, as they can only write in Braille they cannot hope to make themselves understood by people in general. To overcome this difficulty the pupils in the highest class are taught to use the typewriter. This is of the utmost practical value. In general, the composition, both oral and written, is grammatical, and shows freedom and power of expression, but naturally the spelling is often faulty. It is noteworthy that such good composition is produced without any formal teaching of grammar.

The work in Arithmetic needs to be more simple and practical throughout, keeping close to the children's experiences and needs. The use of wooden models to give the children ideas of form is to be commended.

Questioned in History the pupils showed that they knew something of the British conquest in India, and of the careers of Pitt, Clive and Wolfe. They have also studied Australian History up to the present time.

Scripture is well taught; even in the lowest class the pupils are ready to tell the stories of Noah, Abraham, and so on.

Passing over several other subjects which call for no special comment, a word of praise is due for the attention given to Music, both vocal and instrumental. Cut off from all forms of beauty that appeal to the eye, the blind are peculiarly susceptible to the "concord of sweet sounds." In music we find a delightful way to give them aesthetic pleasure, to soften their manners, and to cultivate their emotions. It is well, therefore, that music should fill a prominent place on the time-table of a school for the blind. Here two singing lessons of an hour each are given during the week, and the children also sing together after tea two evenings a week. Four of the senior pupils are taught the piano by Mr. Massey, a visiting teacher, and twelve others by Miss Moffatt. The proficiency attained is creditable. In addition to all this the children might sing several times every day for a few minutes at change of lessons or other suitable times.

The most remarkable pupil in the Institution is Alice Betteridge, a child 9 years and 8 months old, who, like the world-famous Helen Keller, is deaf as well as blind. To reach the mind of one so afflicted might well appear a hopeless task. Yet by patience and skill avenues of communication have been opened up, thought awakened, and the power of expression developed. By the use of the manual alphabet Alice can now talk freely with her teacher and schoolmates; by means of the Braille system she can read and write almost as easily as ordinary children of the same age, better, indeed, than many who are gifted with sight and hearing and have been at school for the same length of time; she acts in her play the stories she has read, and enters to an almost incredible degree into the life and activities that are going on around her. She can count and add, can sew, make dolls and dress them, do bead-work in patterns that require considerable skill. And all this has been brought about in a little over two years. The credit belongs to Miss Reid, who has had special charge of the child's training. Alice herself must have been endowed by nature with a brain of excellent quality. Her bright, cheerful, affectionate ways have made her a general favourite, and the Institution has a right to be proud of her. The following piece of composition written by her in Braille during the inspection will no doubt prove interesting.—

“I got a letter from Rita to-day. Teacher brought roses to school this morning. My bead bag is finished now. It was raining yesterday; we stayed in the schoolroom and library. All the girls and boys are going home after two days. George, Kitty, Norman Gilford are not going home after two days; their home is too far away. Men are here. Their names are Mr. Grieve and Mr. Dennis. They are looking at all the girls and boys. I will not be here next week; I will be in Maitland next week. Rain is good to give flowers and grass and seed a drink.”

The case of this child fittingly concludes our report upon an excellently managed and efficient Institution.

N.S.W. ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADULT DEAF.

To the Directors of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind, City Road, Darlington.

Gentlemen,—During the past 12 months the Adult Deaf Association has held its usual Sunday services, Bible classes and other meetings, for example, lectures, socials, etc. The interest shown in regard to these matters has been good.

The Deaf Journal is still going on well and with satisfactory results.

The Savings Bank, too, is successful in its operations.

The 9th Annual Meeting of the Association took place on September 13th, and was well attended, Mr. Watson being chairman. It was proposed to make an effort to rouse the interest of all the deaf of the State, thus keeping in touch, so far as is possible, with them all.

The late bazaar passed off very satisfactorily, through the splendid work of the Deaf Women's Club. The opening ceremony was performed by J. R. Love, Esq. (the Acting President). It realised nearly £100 after all expenses were paid.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Directors for their kindly aid and interest in our Association.

The health of the members, as a rule, has been very good, whilst their almost constant employment is gratifying.

Yours faithfully,

FLETCHER S. BOOTH.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS AT THE FORTY-NINTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Forty-ninth Annual Meeting of the New South Wales Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind was held at the Institution, Darlington, on Monday, October 24th, at 3 p.m. The Right Honorable the Lord Mayor of Sydney (Alderman Allen Taylor) presided, and there were present: The Lady Mayoress; Mr. J. R. Love and Mr. W. H. Simpson, J.P., Vice-Presidents; Mr. W. Rigg, Honorary Secretary; Sir Philip Sydney Jones, Mr. Aubrey Halloran, Directors; Mrs. W. Briggs, Mrs. Cosh, Mrs. T. Storie Dixson, Lady Harris, Mrs. P. F. Mackenzie, Mrs. M. Manson, Miss Robinson, Mrs. J. F. Rofe, members of the Ladies' Visiting Committee; Rev. Dr. Sellors, Rev. Chas. Stead, Rev. J. H. Austin.

There was a very large attendance of subscribers and friends of the Institution, which completely filled the concert hall. Apologies for non-attendance were received from the following: Mr. Fred. Phillips, Hon. Treasurer; Mr. John Pope, J.P., and Dr. T. Storie Dixson, Directors.

The Report and Balance-sheet, copies of which had been distributed, were taken as read.

The Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, in moving the adoption of the Report and Balance-sheet, said:—

It affords me and the Lady Mayoress very great pleasure to have the privilege of witnessing the great work that has been undertaken in this Institution. We have only to look round on the right and the left to find that those good children who may have been born with very great afflictions are carefully nursed by this great Institution. (Hear, hear.) It is only reasonable to anticipate, with the kindness bestowed on them week after week and year after year, that they will, when they leave the Institution, naturally appreciate its character. Very fortunately the administration has been undertaken by a very generous body of people; and those who have given donations, in many cases of very large sums of money, have enabled this Institution to continue its noble work by their generosity, and it affords me the keenest pleasure to-day to see what a monument has been reared to their industry. (Hear, hear.) The finances of this Institution are in a splendid position. While there are many institutions calling for help, which is only to be expected, the major portion of the help from one section of the community who are always ready to come forward and give their assistance, whether it may be to this Institution or any other that has for its object the uplifting of humanity, there is no institution in this great State that commands itself more to the intelligence and commands from the people more esteem and respect than this Institution. (Hear, hear.)

In looking over the report I see that that esteemed gentleman, Mr. Watson, who has been associated with this Institution for approximately forty years, nearly a life time, will be relieved of that responsibility, because I presume he is getting on in years and desires to take life easier. From what I know of that esteemed gentleman during the time he has been associated with this great work he has been responsible to a very great extent for the success and the good results achieved. (Hear, hear.) Evidently your Committee of Management have received from Mr. Watson extended support and loyalty at all times in devotion to those unfortunate children, and I have every reason to believe that he will always look back on the great work carried out in this Institution, and those people who have the pleasure and privilege of being associated with him will recognise that he has done his duty purely for love of the great trust reposed in him. (Hear, hear.) Before resuming my seat may I endeavour to pay a tribute of respect to your Management. Your success depends entirely on the personality of those who are managing the Institution and I hope those gentlemen who have served you so well in years gone by will long continue to occupy those positions, for the reason that the results achieved show very clearly that their duty has been faithfully carried out and the people have implicit confidence in them. (Hear, hear.)

I read some remarks a few days ago about the child Alice Betteridge. Everyone will be delighted to know how she has developed. (Hear, hear.) The management of this Institution say that the probability is that the girl will, with ordinary care and attention, have a phenomenal future. (Hear, hear.) Results of that character achieved by this Institution, under the guidance of your Directors, will delight everybody, and I sincerely trust that their efforts will continue to be successful. (Hear, hear.) Quite recently I had the pleasure of meeting that very eminent man, Dr. Graham Bell, when I presided at a lecture which he gave, and he made it perfectly clear what a tremendous amount of good could be done to those children who had been born under these terrible afflictions, in such Institutions as this. (Hear, hear.) In America there has been marked development and Dr. Bell told me that it had given him very great pleasure to come to this Institution and he was astounded to find the manner in which the whole thing was conducted. Therefore it is apparent that, notwithstanding the fact that our population is so limited, we are quite up-to-date in giving these children every possible consideration in endeavoring to make their lives as pleasant as possible. (Hear, hear.) The Lady Mayoress and I were extremely pleased when requested by Mr. Rigg, on behalf of the Institution, to come amongst you and perform this ceremony, and I desire once more to congratulate the Directors, Mr. Watson and those associated with him, and trust sincerely that your success will always continue and that your future reports and financial statements will be as satisfactory as they have been to-day. (Applause.)

Mr. J. R. Love (Vice-President), in seconding the motion for the adoption of the Report and Balance-sheet, said:—"My Lord Mayor, Lady Mayoress, Ladies and Gentlemen,—The past year has been one of steady progress, although the studies were interrupted some time ago owing to the epidemics of measles and mumps, when some of the children were laid up, but through the efforts of our excellent Honorary Physician, Dr. P. Sydney Jones, who was unremitting in his attention, and I may also state through the excellent management of our Matrons and Nurses here who carried out the Doctor's instructions, no complications have arisen and at the present time the pupils are practically free from sickness, only a few cases of mumps being left. (Hear, hear.)

"The Report expresses our extreme regret that nothing has been done to bring about the compulsory education of the Deaf and Dumb and Blind children. This is a subject we have been harping on for years. In turning over some papers the other day in my office I came across the draft of a Bill drawn up by our late President, Sir Arthur Renwick, six years ago, showing that we have been trying to get a compulsory clause inserted in the Education Act. It does seem absurd that parents are punished for not sending to school children who have all their faculties, while on the other hand parents of the children whom we have here are not compelled to send them, and we know of a large number who are receiving no education, and the result will be that they will grow up in ignorance and perhaps vice, while if they were sent here, under our care we could train them up in the way they should go, providing we get them at the proper age. (Hear, hear.) The hearing child is continually expressing thought, continually asking questions, and a thousand and one things of daily life and expression give him mental food which he absorbs and assimilates and makes his own. This is what the teachers desire to see in connection with deaf pupils. We may give them a language education that will place them as far as possible socially on a level with their hearing brother, that will take them out of their loneliness and solitary isolation which they would otherwise suffer. (Hear, hear.) We try to help them in the duties of life. We try to help them to help themselves. (Hear, hear.) A pupil may not be less intelligent than his hearing brother, although shut out from a varied amount of information which the other may retain through the ear, but he will compare favorably on the same level provided he has adequate help given him. (Hear, hear.) And as the great majority of our pupils come from the humbler ranks of life they must earn their own livelihood, and it is of the utmost importance that they should be familiarised with the language they will have to use. When they enter the busy world and busy marts of men to earn their own living they will find fresh acquisitions within their grasp and solid knowledge within their power, and that which was previously unattainable they may attain for ever. (Hear, hear.) What we want is a child sent to us at about seven years of age, and then he will have a chance of training for some nine or ten years, and it will be a very dull child that we could not turn out fitted to fight the battle of life. (Hear, hear.) Of course the most interesting scholar we have is the little child Alice Betteridge, under the care of Miss Reid. She is blind and deaf, and I cannot do better than read you a short passage from the Inspectors' Report.

(The speaker then read extracts from the report dealing with the pupil Alice Betteridge.)

"I may state that the Institution may be proud of her, and during the examination they got her to write a letter (the letter was read and received with applause.) This child has only been in the Institution two years. It is not many children in possession of all their faculties that could write a letter like that before examiners. (Hear, hear.)

"In regard to the finances I have nothing much to say, only that our Treasurer has been sailing very close to the wind. At all events the balance is on the right side. We have ten shillings and tenpence to start the year with. (Laughter and applause.) We have had some very great necessities forced upon us. One idea of ours is to put up a building that will cost upwards of £10,000, and accommodate 100 pupils. We have 141 now in the Institution. The Institution is practically full and if we are to have those children who we know are not attending any school we would require to have the room for them, because we know of 70 or 80 who should be at school in this State. We have asked the Government to give us £5000. You may think that is a great sum, but when you take into consideration that this block of buildings cost £50,000, and £50,000 at 4 per cent. per annum gives £2000; including this £2000, the cost of education and maintenance is £7438, towards which the Government contributes £1233, leaving a balance of £6205 that we save the Government yearly. That is a very large sum, but I do not suppose that the Government or anyone else who took up the Institution instead of us could carry it on more economically than we do. I may say that for building purposes we have not had any help from the Government since 1879, that is 31 years ago, since they helped us to put up our building, and I think we are not asking them too much when we ask them to give us the sum we anticipate. (Hear, hear.) Next year we enter on our Jubilee and it will be a grand thing if our President, now in England, whom we shortly expect out here, will be able to take the assembly at our celebration at the Anniversary next October, and show them over the new building which could be then completed. I dare say we can have it completed in that time. All that we want is some money. The Directors cannot borrow and we depend on the public. The public have been very kind to us. They have helped us through all our difficulties year after year; of course the increased number of children that we expect, and the increasing number that we now have, will require a great deal of extra assistance. We trust that the wealthy people will come to our assistance and help us to erect our building. As shewing the economical administration of the Institution, so far as the Government is concerned, I will quote some figures. In New South Wales (in 1909) the cost to the Government per pupil for the average number of pupils in the Institution (133) was £9 5s 5d; in Victoria (1906), 78 pupils, £11 10s 9d; in South Australia (1908), 75 pupils, £10 13s 4d; in West Australia (1908), 23 pupils, £21 14s 9d; in New York (1908), 555 pupils, £28 8s 6d. So you see that we are a long way down the list and yet this Institution is carried on up-to-date, as the Lord Mayor mentioned when speaking of Dr. Graham Bell. Dr. Bell came here and made no superficial inspection. He spent two hours with the classes, examined them himself, and he was very pleased and said we were carrying on excellent work. With regard to the senior class of pupils, when they leave the Institution they carry away with them the regard and respect of those left. These young people formed themselves into an Association some years ago and now occupy premises erected for their use, in which they hold a general meeting once a week and other meetings nightly. They have reading rooms and a printing press, and they send out "The Silent Messenger" to other deaf people throughout the country. (Hear, hear.) It shows the great advantage it has been to these young men and women to have been educated here and under the care of Mr. Watson. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Watson, next month, will have completed 40 years' service in this Institution. (Hear, hear.) Forty years nobly spent. Mr. Watson has done his duty and his name will live long in the hearts of many who have benefited by his teaching. I am sure that Mr. Watson's record for faithful and successful administration, and personal interest in the welfare of those with whom he came into contact, is praiseworthy and unique. (Hear, hear), and I am sure I echo the wishes of everyone in this hall that Mr. Watson may enjoy long life to bask in the sunshine of happiness and contentment. (Applause.)

The motion for the adoption of the Report and Balance-sheet was carried with acclamation.

Sir Philip Sydney Jones: The resolution that has been entrusted to me reads as follows:—"That the thanks of this meeting are hereby given to the Government and Parliament for the annual donation of £450 in aid of the funds of the Institution"; and I have pleasure in moving accordingly. Successive Governments have very kindly given us contributions to the funds and the late Government was not behindhand. Practically the same sum has been donated year after year, and we are very thankful. At the same time it should be said that if the work done here were not done by this Board of Directors it would devolve upon the Government to educate all these children—(Hear, hear)—and they would have to spend a very much larger sum, as you have already heard from the acting President, in the education of these children. But for the work of this Institution a very large sum would have to be expended by the Government and Parliament in the education and bringing up of these children, and as the Lord Mayor says probably it would not be done as well. With regard to the new building I would like to add this to what our acting President has said: that the enlargement of this Institution is absolutely necessary. In the first place the dining room accommodation is much too small. The dormitories are already overcrowded, as also are the Teachers' quarters. Various modifications in the schoolrooms are necessary in the way of separation of the classes. The Institution is now quite full, and, as the acting President has told you, there are to our knowledge some eighty or ninety deaf and dumb, or blind children in the State of New South Wales who are growing up in absolute ignorance. Such a state of things is absolutely deplorable. (Hear, hear.) We have done our best in the past to induce various governments to introduce a Bill compelling the parents of these afflicted children to send them here or to some kindred place. That has been in vain. No such bill has ever been introduced. We want accommodation not only for the present pupils but for the prospective pupils. The increase in their numbers has gone on steadily. For instance, in 1905 there were only 89 pupils; at the present moment there are 141, and there has been a steady increase each year. If the increase is to go on in the same proportion you can easily understand how absolutely imperative it is that we should have further accommodation. (Hear, hear.) It occurred to me that we could celebrate in no more appropriate manner the Jubilee of this Institution and the forty years' tenancy of the office of Superintendent by Mr. Watson, than by making a determined effort to add to these buildings in the way in which I have just mentioned. The Honorary Secretary reminds me that our President, although absent in England, has the interests of the Institution thoroughly at heart—(Hear, hear)—and he has been doing good work there in his endeavour to select a successor to Mr. Watson. We believe that he has found the right man. The matter is not quite fixed up yet, but if the new Superintendent proves to be anything like Mr. Watson for devotion to duty, for enthusiasm, for love of the children, he will be on admirable superintendent. (Applause.)

Mr. W. H. Simpson: In seconding the motion I do not think it is necessary that I should say anything in addition to what Sir Philip Sydney Jones has said in moving the resolution. I would merely mention that we received £450 from the Government when we only had half the number of students we have at the present time, and it would be only reasonable to ask them to increase that amount now. (Hear, hear.) I think it only fair to mention that the Government assists us in a number of other ways. We have children from parents who are in very poor circumstances (some of the children are orphans) and the Government comes to our assistance. They give us a portion of the cost of their maintenance in the Institution. We are very grateful for this and we hope and trust they will also assist us when we have a larger number of students.

The motion was carried unanimously and with applause.

Rev. Dr. Sellors: I have pleasure in moving the following resolution:—That the following gentlemen be members of the Board of Directors for the ensuing year:

President: Mr. John H. Goodlet, J.P.

Vice-Presidents: Mr. James R. Love, Mr. W. H. Simpson, J.P.

Hon. Treasurer: Mr. Fred. Phillips.

Hon. Secretary: Mr. William Rigg, J.P.

Directors to fill vacancies: Mr. Robert Chadwick, J.P., Mr. John Harris, J.P., and Mr. John Pope, J.P.

And that the following do constitute the Medical Staff:

Hon. Consulting Physician, Dr. George E. Rennie, M.D., F.R.C.P.

Hon. Consulting Surgeon: Dr. Chas. P. B. Clubbe, M.R.C.S., L.S.C.P.

Hon. Ophthalmic Surgeon. Dr. J. C. Halliday, M.B., Ch.M., F.R.C.S.

Hon. Aural Surgeon: Dr. John B. Graham, M.D., M.Ch.

Hon. Physicians: Dr. Herbert J. Marks, M.D., B.Ch.; Dr. P. Sydney Jones, M.B., Ch.M.

After an absence from Sydney of two years I have pleasure in being able to take part in this gathering. Two years ago, in London, I was present at a similar meeting held in the Egyptian Hall of the Mansion House. Sir Thomas Marlowe, Physician to our late King Edward VII, was one of the speakers. The audience was not half the size of this. The prayers and speeches were rendered so as the mutes could understand them, and the Treasurer and the Secretary of that Institution were mutes. I have a keen personal interest in these institutions which are for the benefit of those who are afflicted in the way in which the children in these institutions are afflicted. In the words of Job, "I was eyes to the blind"; that is what this Institution is here. (Hear, hear.) I can speak in terms of confidence and praise of what New South Wales is doing for the young people, and especially for those who are afflicted as some are here. This Institution has been well managed in the past. It has a splendid history and I believe it will command a grand future. (Applause.)

Rev. Charles Stead: I have pleasure in seconding the motion. One fact that has been much in evidence this afternoon has given me very much pleasure, that is the sense of prosperity of this Institution and the consciousness that those who are subscribing to it every year are now seeing the benefits to be derived from their liberality. (Hear, hear.) At the same time I must confess to a feeling of regret—I can remember this Institution as far back as 45 years, and when I think of the rise and progress of this Institution and the far-reaching benefits which have accrued to this State, my heart rejoices at the noble work accomplished—but the sad thought that comes to my mind is that our esteemed friend the Superintendent is about to relinquish his work. I have known Mr. Watson for a quarter of a century and I have visited this Institution side by side with him and watched the progress and the instruction and care bestowed on our unfortunate friends, and my admiration for Mr. Watson's work is sincere and strong. His heart is with the children, whom he loves, and in proportion to their unfortunate condition his affection is drawn out to them. I never knew a man whose heart and intellect, whose entire nature was more adapted for the work that has been entrusted to him. (Hear, hear.) I know that there are thousands of people who can never feel but grateful for the services of Mr. Watson to these children. So although there is a feeling of regret Mr. Watson will retire from his work with the affectionate admiration and the best thanks of the people whose children have been in his care. While recognising Mr. Watson's position I hope a successor equal to him will take charge and that this Institution will flourish for years to come. (Applause.)

The motion was carried with acclamation.

Mr. Aubrey Halloran: I have pleasure in moving the fourth resolution: "That the thanks of this meeting be hereby awarded to the Honorary Staff for their services in the past year." In moving this resolution we must remember the great extent to which we are indebted to those who give their honorary services to this Institution. If we had to pay for the services rendered by these honorary officers the amount which has been spent on the education of these pupils would have been considerably increased. (Hear, hear.) With regard to the services rendered by the Medical Staff, it is a significant fact that there have been no deaths in this Institution during the past forty years. (Applause.) The first aim of those who give their services to this Institution is to make the children happy. One of the mottoes in life should be:

"Shut tight your eyes to sadness whene'er it comes along.

And ope them wide to gladness, and fill your hearts with song."

Visitors who have seen the children here have wondered how they can be so happy. The teaching they receive makes them happy. (Hear, hear.) We find that the men and women who have left this Institution are able to compete in the ordinary walks of life with those not similarly afflicted. Deaf and dumb children may have their other faculties quite as bright as those not so afflicted, and most of those who were in this Institution are now self-supporting, and are reputable citizens by reason of being able to make the best use of their faculties, through the education they have received here. (Applause.)

Rev. J. H. Austin: I have pleasure in seconding the motion. One of our constitutional writers has said that Great Britain owes its greatness to the noble services of its noblest sons. It is gratifying to know that there is such a large body of men and women connected with this Institution who have given such effective and continuous service in one of the greatest of all causes, the cause of the children. I think we could not pay a higher tribute to them than to quote One who said, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these ye did it unto Me." (Applause.)

The motion was carried with acclamation.

Mr. Watson, who was received with loud and continued applause, said: I had no anticipation that my name would have been brought so prominently forward to-day. In fact, I asked the Honorary Secretary to please try and suppress it, but I am sorry to say that though in many many ways he accedes to my wishes and furthers them very happily, yet to-day he failed wofully to keep me in the background, and I am afraid His Lordship has joined in the conspiracy. (Laughter and applause.) I understand that the Lord Mayor has to be at another place early and as a consequence of that speeches should be shortened. Under the circumstance I think it would be wise on my part if I just simply and very very heartily thanked you one and all for the kind words that have been uttered. I only wish that I deserved them. However, through life one often gets what one does not deserve, and I feel that after all these years, with the experience I have had in connection with this Institution and the kindness I have received over and over again I could not touch on these matters except by saying that I for one got far more than I deserved. I only wish I was capable of making a speech, but I have never tried to cultivate that art, and I am afraid I am too old now to begin; but I would like to say how cordially I appreciate the kind words that have been spoken by one and another this afternoon, more indeed than I can possibly tell you. When the severance does come, and come it must within the next eight months, it will be something like plucking up the roots of an old tree. Still I was looking forward to it after the expiration of fifty years among the Deaf and Blind, which period will have elapsed next May, and my desire will then be gratified. Again and again I thank one and all for the kind words they have uttered and for the cordial way in which these have been received. (Applause.)

Sir Philip Sydney Jones proposed a vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress for their attendance.

Mr. William Rigg (Honorary Secretary) seconded the motion, which was carried with enthusiastic acclamation.

The Lord Mayor, in responding, said that the whole proceedings had touched him greatly and he desired to congratulate Mr. Watson very heartily, and his assistants for the magnificent display and the glorious manner in which they were taking care of the afflicted children. He hoped it would be the privilege of himself and the Lady Mayoress to support such a good work, because it was worthy of every consideration. It had been a gathering which he would always look back upon with a desire to benefit and assist the Institution in its great and noble work. (Applause.)

An interesting exhibition was given by the students, under the guidance of Mr. Watson and several other ladies and gentlemen, and the proceedings terminated with the National Anthem, sung by the blind pupils.

COMPOSITION BY THE PUPILS.

The following specimens of composition, or essays, are the work of some of the pupils (the subjects are of their own choosing), and receive no correction, except such as their respective writers can make on a careful review, when the prominent errors are pointed out by a teacher. In judging them it is well to remember the ages of the writers, and the length of time at school; also that very few, if any, had acquired a knowledge of written or spoken language previous to their admission into the Institution:—

WOOL.

Wool is got from the sheep. It was once taken off by shears, but now it is taken off by machinery. When taken off it is then packed in bales and sent to be combed and cleaned. Then it is made into different kinds of cloth. A great deal is sent to Sydney and thence to England. The first man who brought sheep into this country was Mr. Macarthur. There are many different breeds of sheep, some of which are very costly.

E. H. (one year at school; blind).

A PICNIC.

Last Wednesday we went for a picnic to Clifton Gardens with the scholars from St. Alban's Sunday School. It was very kind of them to invite us. At 20 past 11 we boarded two trams at Codrington-street which took us to Fort Macquarie. We went on board a steamer, which took us to Clifton Gardens. We had games, rides on the razzle-dazzle, and went for a row in pulling boats. Some of us paddled in the water. The big boys had a swim in the baths. We got home about six o'clock, having enjoyed ourselves very much.

R. W. (2 years 9 months at school).

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting was held in the large hall last Monday. It was very nice. There was a large number of people present. The Lord Mayor of Sydney presided. The Lady Mayoress was there. The blind pupils sang some beautiful hymns and songs. Some of the pupils had a short examination. The Lord Mayor and his wife went away early, because he had another important meeting. After the annual meeting the people went to see over the buildings. They enjoyed themselves very much. The Lord Mayor takes a warm interest in the Deaf and Blind. When he comes again we hope to address him as Sir Allen Taylor. He is very nice and pleasant, and we like him much. He kissed the deaf blind girl named Alice Betteridge.

H. E. (6 years at school; age 15).

WHEAT.

Wheat is a cereal. It grows like tall grass. The wheat is taken out of the little pods. These pods are called husks. The husks are ground down and made into bran. The bran is used as food for cattle and horses. The grains of wheat are ground by machinery into a white powder. This powder is called flour. The flour is made into bread. Other cereals are rice, oats, millet, barley and maize.

F. B. (15 years of age; 5 years at school).

SPECIAL INFORMATION.

“The object of this Institution is the education and maintenance and, as far as practicable, the advancement in life of deaf and dumb and blind children.”

The Institution is open to Subscribers and other Visitors on Tuesdays and Fridays, from 2 to 4 p.m., and at other times on special order from the Honorary Secretary or a Director.

The Parents and Friends of children are admitted once a fortnight, on Thursdays, between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

The children are permitted to leave the Institution to visit their friends once a month, on special written application being made to the Honorary Secretary.

When a case of serious or infectious illness occurs while a pupil is at home, it must be reported to the Hon. Secretary, and the child must not be returned to school until all danger of infection has passed, and a medical certificate to that effect produced.

Forms and all particulars for the admission of pupils can be obtained of the Honorary Secretary.

Subscriptions and donations will be thankfully received and acknowledged by the Treasurer, the Secretary, or at the Institution.

The Meetings of the Board of Directors are held on the Second Monday in each month, at 3 o'clock p.m. The Ladies' Visiting Committee meet at the Institution on the last Friday in each month, at 3 o'clock.

The cost of passages to and from the Institution must be paid by the friends of the pupils, the Board having no fund for this purpose.

All communications to be addressed to Mr. William Rigg, Honorary Secretary, at the Institution, City Road (late Newtown Road), Darlington, Sydney.

Money orders should be made payable to the Secretary or Treasurer, at the General Post Office, Sydney.

It is highly necessary that the Parents or Friends of children should notify the Secretary of any change of residence, so that, in case of illness, or other cause, immediate communication may be made.

The Public, Subscribers, and friends of the Institution are earnestly entreated to notify the Secretary of the existence in their districts of any Deaf and Dumb or Blind Children, from 7 to 15 years of age, it having been a source of great regret to the Board to find that several children have passed the age of admission, simply from their not having come under the notice of some kind friends who would take the necessary steps to enable them to be brought within the advantages of the Institution.

INFORMATION AND DIRECTIONS RELATIVE TO THE ADMISSION OF CHILDREN TO THE INSTITUTION.

1. Applications must be in writing, addressed to the Secretary, sent before the child is brought to the Institution, and should contain as full information as possible. The necessary forms can be obtained of the Hon. Secretary.

2. Pupils are admissible from any part of the State of New South Wales, and, under certain conditions, from other States.

3. No child deficient in intellect, subject to fits, or unable to wash and dress itself, can be considered a fit subject for admission; and no child, whose conduct or habits are deemed by the officers to be objectionable, will be allowed to remain in the Institution.

4. No child shall be admitted of any age younger than seven years, nor older than twelve years, unless under special circumstances, to be decided by the Board.

5. No order will be given by the Secretary for a child's admission until the medical certificate has been obtained, and it must be understood that no children are eligible for admission until every means have been tried for restoring their sight or hearing, as the case may be.

6. Children, on entering the Institution, are required to have two complete suits of clothing for school or week-day wear, to be of dark colour, and a better suit for Sunday, and to be provided with clothing (see list) by their parents and friends during their residence. Each child must be provided with a box or trunk, in which to keep clothing when clean. If £5 be remitted, the Board will purchase an outfit on admission.

7. Any amounts remitted to the Secretary for the purchase of clothing will be expended under the direction of the Board of Directors.

8. School fees vary according to the circumstances of the parents; the highest fee is £40 a year. If the parents are not able to pay that amount, a smaller fee will be accepted.

9. In the case of pauper children, a certificate of inability to pay any fee must be obtained from known individuals.

10. Fees are payable in advance, and date from the time of admission.

11. Children cannot be permitted to leave the Institution unless with the direct sanction and authority of the Board of Directors.

12. In addition to the usual educational course, the girls are taught cookery, household duties, and plain and fancy needle-work; and the deaf boys carpentry.

13. The vacations are 6 weeks at Christmas and 1 week at midwinter; and it is essential that pupils should return to the Institution on the day fixed to commence duties after each vacation. "and with their clothing clean and in proper order." (See list.)

14. The average term of residence in the Institution for pupils is from 2 to 10 years, but the length of stay depends a good deal on the age of the child when admitted. Parents should particularly note this, as, if a child is kept at home until 12 or 13 years of age, it cannot be permitted to remain the full term, and as it takes from 8 to 10 years to educate an afflicted child properly, it is very important that it be sent when about 7 years of age. Parents will only have themselves to blame if they keep their children at home too long, and then have them only partially educated.

15. Except under special circumstances children will only be admitted at two periods of the year, viz., in January and July.

16. It is requested that all communications be addressed to

WILLIAM RIGG, Hon. Secretary,
City Road, Darlington, Sydney.

FORM OF BEQUEST.

TO THE

NEW SOUTH WALES INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND.

I give and bequeath unto A.B. (or unto my said executors or my said trustees as the case may be) the sum of upon Trust to pay out of my Personal Estate to the Treasurer for the time being of "The New South Wales Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind" (Incorporated), City Road (late Newtown Road), Darlington, such sum as a donation to the said Institution.

The following is the proper attestation to a Will:—

Signed by the above-named testator as and for his last Will in our presence who in his presence at his request and in the presence of each other have subscribed our names as Witnesses.

Signatures and Addresses.

HINTS TO PARENTS WHO WISH THEIR DEAF CHILDREN TAUGHT TO SPEAK.

Do not check, but encourage, the child in the production of vocal sounds, noises, and laughter, even though such sounds may be deemed unpleasant or discordant. Speak to the child at all times, slowly and distinctly, in such a manner as to afford a good view of the lips and tongue.

Though at first not able to understand, the child will, in course of time, if this practice be persistently carried on, begin to associate certain movements of the lips and tongue with certain objects and actions. Many deaf children in this way are taught by their parents and nurses to speak understandingly such words as papa, or mamma, etc.

On the same principle that the sound of the spoken word, striking continually on the active ear of an infant, at length connects itself in the child's brain with a certain object or action; so does the movement of the lips and tongue convey a similar impression through the eye of the deaf child, as to the relations existing between such movements and the objects, etc.

Avoid most carefully making signs. Use no more natural gestures than are absolutely necessary. A look or pointing at the object should, as a rule, suffice. Encourage the child to associate with hearing children. If possible keep the deaf child strictly apart from those using signs or the finger alphabet.

Be very patient and consistent in your treatment of and behaviour to the deaf child, and see that others are, too; not quick and impatient at one time and over indulgent at another, but always loving, gentle, and firm. As a rule there is nothing in the deaf mute child itself to prevent physical and intellectual improvement. He has the same mind, the same understanding, the same capacity to learn as other children possess. How shall his mental faculties be developed? How shall he learn from others to use their language when he cannot hear their words?

The solution of this problem is the special province of schools for the deaf. Instruction in such schools can only result successfully when it is assisted and prepared for by the Home training. In the early education of deaf mutes it should be taken into consideration that in consequence of their infirmity they are more dependent upon others, and have more claim to patience and forbearance than those who hear.

From their earliest infancy they should feel the lack of this forbearance and patience as little as possible. Parents must assist the deaf mute child from the first and devote themselves to him more self-sacrificingly than to others. The above hints are certainly not meant to encourage parents in pampering their deaf children, or spoiling them by over-indulgence, or fostering self-will in any way.
